NUMB. 5002

SATURDAY, APRIL 6, 1745.

S the present Possessor of the Persian Empire is on the Point of attacking the Turks with greater Forces, and greater Vigour than ever, it may not be amiss, in this Dearth of News, to present our Readers with an exact Account of that Conqueror, drawn up by a Person who had great Opportunity of knowing what he wrote, and endued with excellent Judgment; so that the utmost Credit may be given to all Matters of Fact of his Writing.

Nadir Shah is about 57 Years old, upwards of Six high, well proportioned, of a very robust Make Constitution; his Complexion sanguine, and inclining to be fat; but the Fatigue he undergoes prevents it. He has fine large Black Eyes and Eyebrows; in short, is one of the most comely Men I ever beheld.

The Injury the Sun and Weather have done his complexion, only gives him a more manly Aspect. His Voice is uncommonly loud and strong, that he frequently, and without Straining it, gives Orders to his Troops at above 100 Yards Distance. He drinks Wine in Moderation, but is extremely addicted to Women, which affects great Variety; and yet never neglects his Duty on their Account. His Hours of Retirement among the Ladies are but few; seldom entering Apartments before 11 or 12 at Night, and is up, in Publick, by Five in the Morning. His Diet is simple, chiefly Pillage, and plain Dishes; and if Publick Officers require his Attendance, he neglects his Meals, satisfies his Hunger with a few parched Peas (of which he always carries some in his Pockets) and a Glass of Water. In the Camp, or in the City, he is constantly in Publick; and if not, he may be seen, or spoke with by any Person. He musters, and cloaths his Army himself, and will not suffer any Perquisites to be taken from the Soldiers or Officers, on any Pretence whatsoever.

He monthly Accounts transmitted to him of the Affairs in all Parts of his Dominions, and Correspondence with his several private Spies every Place: Besides, in every Province and City, is a Person called Hum Calam, appointed to inform the Governor's Actions, and keep a Register of them. No Affair of any Consequence can be transmitted but in the Presence of that Officer; who, before the Account the Governor is obliged to send him, transmits his Journal by a separate Conveyance, whenever he thinks proper, without permitting Governor to peruse it. He has no settled Salary or Quota for his Trouble, but is rewarded, or punished, as Nadir Shah finds he deserves. This extraordinary Provision, in a great Measure, prevents the Governor's oppressing the People, or entering into any Conspiracies against him. He is extremely generous, especially to his Soldiers; and bountifully rewards all his Servts who behave well. He is, at the same time, very severe and strict in his Discipline, punishing Death those who commit a great Offence; and the Loss of their Ears, those whose Transgressions are of a lighter Nature. He never pardons the Guilty, whatever Rank soever; and is highly displeased, if, after being thoroughly examined the Affair, any Person pretends to intercede in their Behalf; before which, they give their Sentiments with Freedom.

On a March, or in the Field, he contents himself to eat, drink, and sleep like a common Soldier, and sets all his Officers to the same severe Discipline. He has a Constitution, that he has been often taken ill of, on a frosty Night, to repose himself on the Ground, in the open Air, wrapt up in his Cloak, with a Saddle for his Pillow; especially when upon an unexpected Enterprize, which required Dispatch, he has been obliged to outmarch his Baggage, by which time he has fallen upon the Enemy when they least expected him. He is never happy but when in a Condition, and laments the Time he is obliged to stay in a Place, to refresh his Troops; in which (as in all Things else) he uses the utmost Dispatch. His Meals are over within half an Hour, after which he returns to his Servts; so that the Servants who attend him standing, are changed three or four times a Day. He never indulges himself in any Kind of Pleasure in the Day time, but constantly at Sun-set retires to a private Apartment, there, unbending himself at once from Business, he sups with three or four Favourites, and drinks a Quart, or at least three Pints of Wine; behaving all the Time in the best and most facetious Manner. In this private Conversation, no Person is allowed to mention any Thing relating to publick Business; nor, at other Times, must they presume, upon this Intimacy, to behave with more Familiarity than their Equals. Two of his Evening Companions happening to transgres in that Point, by taking the Liberty to advise him in Publick, he immediately ordered them to be strangled, saying; 'Such Fools were not fit to live, who could not distinguish between Nadir Shah and Nadir Kule.' He has been very kind to those who please him in private Conversation, and behave with a becoming Decency and Demeanour in Publick, where they are taken no more Notice of, nor have they any more Influence over him, than others of the same Rank.

His Mother, who was living in the Year 1737, (at the Request of some who were attach'd to the Royal Family) intreated Nadir Shah, some time after he had seiz'd the King, to restore him; not doubting but his Majesty would make him sufficient Amends, by creating him Generalissimo for Life. He ask'd her, Whether she really thought so? She told him, She did: Upon which he smiled, and said, 'If I was an old Woman, perhaps I might be inclin'd to think so too; and desired her to give herself no Trouble about State Affairs.'

Dublin, March 26. Last Saturday Evening the Right Rev. Dr. Cox, Lord Bishop of Ossory, was married to Miss O'Brien, Daughter to the Hon. James O'Brien, and Niece to the Right Hon. the Countess of Kildare, and the Earl of Inchiquin, Knight of the Bath.

Last Week died Capt. Wilson, of Mary's Lane, aged near 80, who had been confined to his Chamber by the Gout upwards of 15 Years: He was one of the oldest Commission'd Officers in the Navy. By his Death, his Son, Mr. Paschal Wilson, Publick Notary in Castle-street, gets a considerable Fortune.

Extract of a private Letter from Capt. Hughes, dated Kinsale, March 22.

By the Description which we have given to the French Prisoners here, of the Vessel we were engaged with the 10th and 11th Instant, they apprehend her to have been the Henrietta belonging to the Senegal Company, which mounted 20 Guns, Eight Pounders, besides Swivels, and was worth a very large Sum. She fought very bravely; but when they hoisted their Lights, we could not give them the least Assistance, the Storm was so very great. Other Letters say, that her Cargo was worth 70,000 £.

SCHWANBERG's Liquid-Shell

FOR THE

GRAVEL and STONE.

AS the Principle of Mrs. STEVENS's MEDICINE for the GRAVEL and STONE is well known to be the Allicant Soap and the calcin'd Shells, which promote the Dissolution thereof, and for the Discovery of which, the Parliament of Great Britain granted 5000 l. and as this is esteemed the best Medicine ever yet publish'd in the above Cases, no notwithstanding the enormous Dose, it is to be presumed, that if the internal Essence, which is Salt, was to be dissolved into a Liquid, it would be more efficacious than the crude Medicine: Now, that there is such a dissolution to be had, of which, from ten to thirty Drops is a pleasant and safe Dose; those who are afflicted with the Gravel and Stone may be convain'd, by taking them in a Glass of generous Wine; and are so innocent, that an Infant in the Month may take 'em.

Note. They are to be had for one Shilling and Sixpence the small Vial, at the Golden Dove, under the Starkey's, facing Servants Inn in Fleetstreet; where an Abstract of its Virtues may be had gratis.
